

Develop your interests and independent learning skills by reading around your subject.

Find out what specific skills you need to do well in Economics and revise each of your units.

Look out for your unit resource guides on the Student Portal featuring your journal, Economic Review.

Username: dsfstudent
Password: DSFC2122#online

All of these resources can be borrowed from the Library. Search your Online Library Catalogue to find even more for economics, study skills, careers, wellbeing and fiction.

IF YOU WOULD LIKE ANY HELP FINDING OR USING YOUR RESOURCES, JUST ASK RACHEL

Exam Technique and Cross-Unit Revision

Recurring Features: look out for the practice questions that often appear in articles.

Data and response exam-style questions: how the material provided in an accompanying article on house prices and income could appear in the format of an A-level examination. February 2021 issue.

Demand and supply: summarises central aspects of these two key concepts in economics. April 2021 issue.

Quantitative skills: getting diagrams right: being able to draw correct diagrams under exam conditions is an important way of demonstrating to the examiners that you have conquered this vital skill. This shows how to avoid some common errors. April 2021 issue.

Writing an economics essay: being able to write good economics essays is an important skill that you need to develop during your A-level studies. April 2018 issue.

What is a market? Discusses different types of markets and how institutions can help improve their efficiency. This article supports your study of markets; competition; monopoly; demand; supply; and externalities. April 2021 issue.

Exploring economic growth: growth in the economy matters for everyone - individuals, businesses, charities and the government. This examines types of economic growth. This article supports your study of macroeconomics; growth; GDP; income; consumption; output; and wellbeing. April 2021 issue.

Sport and Covid-19: exploring the economic impact of cancellations: as sports matches and competitions across the world are cancelled because of the Covid-19 pandemic, you might think it's only the players and fans who were affected, but this article discusses the wider economic impacts. This article supports your study of CGP; consumption; exports; multiplier effect; willingness to pay; productivity; and wellbeing. September 2020 issue.

Find the latest issue of Economic Review on the journals spinner and past issues shelved with the economics books.